

Writing Exploration #1a
2013

Ms. Bromley | ENGL120 | EMU Fall

DUE: Monday, September 9

What does it mean for you to be a successful college student?

Working from the list you generated in today's class, our class discussion, and your own thoughtful reflections on your experiences with education and academics. write two (2) full pages describing what it means for you to be a successful college student. Consider these questions as you begin drafting your paper: What tasks must you perform to be successful? What does academic success look like for you? What nonacademic factors, such as job, family, and extracurricular activities, play a role in student success? How do you plan to be successful, what steps will you take? Think carefully about your high school education experience and the steps you took to prepare for college--what habits or activities will help you be successful in college? What new habits can you adapt? Think about the courses you are taking now, and your academic goals this semester and throughout your college career. Be specific, provide details, and write from your perspective (it's okay to say "I").

This assignment is worth 15 points, evaluated on the following criteria:

1. Write 2 FULL pages in response to the assignment prompt (6 pts)
2. Format 12 pt. Times New Roman, double spaced, 1" margins, proper MLA headings and title (4pts)
3. Evidence of thoughtful writing (providing specific details, paper is organized in a logical way, paper is proofread, spell-checked, and relatively free of errors). (5pts)

Writing Exploration #1a
2013

Ms. Bromley | ENGL120 | EMU Fall

DUE: Monday, September 9

What does it mean for you to be a successful college student?

Working from the list you generated in today's class, our class discussion, and your own thoughtful reflections on your experiences with education and academics. write two (2) full pages describing what it means for you to be a successful college student. Consider these questions as you begin drafting your paper: What tasks must you perform to be successful? What does academic success look like for you? What nonacademic factors, such as job, family, and extracurricular activities, play a role in student success? How do you plan to be successful, what steps will you take? Think carefully about your high school education experience and the steps you took to prepare for college--what habits or activities will help you be successful in college? What new habits can you adapt? Think about the courses you are taking now, and your academic goals this semester and throughout your college career. Be specific, provide details, and write from your perspective (it's okay to say "I").

This assignment is worth 15 points, evaluated on the following criteria:

1. Write 2 FULL pages in response to the assignment prompt (6 pts)
2. Format: 12 pt. Times New Roman, double spaced, 1" margins, proper MLA headings and title (4pts)
3. Evidence of thoughtful writing (providing specific details, paper is organized in a logical way, paper is proofread, spell-checked, and relatively free of errors). (5pts)